The Role of Voluntary Accreditation in the United States

One of the distinctive features of American education is that the development and maintenance of educational standards are the responsibilities of nongovernmental, voluntary accrediting associations. The U.S. Office of Education is cognizant of the invaluable contribution which the voluntary accrediting associations have made to the development of educational quality in the Nation. It is the policy of the Office generally to support and encourage the various recognized voluntary accrediting associations in their role as the primary agents in the development and maintenance of educational standards in the United States.

Foreword

This is the second annual edition of a list of postsecondary institutions and programs which are accredited by, or which have preaccredited status awarded by, the regional and national specialized agencies recognized by the U.S. Commissioner of Education. This publication replaces the quadrennial Accredited Higher Institutions, a compilation of higher education institutions accredited by nationally recognized accrediting agencies, and by State agencies responsible for approving institutions of higher education within the various States.

In addition to the lists of postsecondary specialized and vocational institutions and institutions of higher education which have attained accredited status as of September 1, 1972, this publication includes those institutions or programs which have attained a preaccredited status with the accrediting agencies having recognized procedures for assigning such status. Not included are lists of institutions that are approved, recognized, classified, or licensed by State agencies authorized to perform these functions. This publication is revised annually to record the changes that occur among the institutions and programs which are accredited or have a preaccredited status.

This 1972 edition of Accredited Postsecondary Institutions and Programs has been compiled by automated data processing equipment from data stored in the information retrieval system maintained by the Accreditation and Institutional Eligibility Staff of the Office of Education and reproduced by the linotron process in the U.S. Government Printing Office.

The users of Accredited Postsecondary Institutions and Programs, and the Accreditation and Institutional Eligibility Staff, are especially indebted to Peter P. Muirhead, Acting Deputy Assistant Secretary for Education, for his support in its development.

The Office of Education is grateful to the officers of the regional and specialized accrediting agencies who supplied the data contained in this publication.

Introduction

The United States has no Federal ministry of education or other centralized authority which exercises single, national control over educational institutions. In this country, the States assume varying degrees of control over education but, in general, institutions of higher education are permitted to operate with considerable independence and autonomy. As a consequence, American educational institutions vary widely in the character and quality of their programs.

To insure a basic level of quality, the practice of accreditation arose in the United States as a means of conducting nongovernmental, peer evaluation of educational institutions and programs. Private educational associations of regional or national scope have adopted criteria reflecting the qualities of sound educational programs, and have developed procedures for evaluating institutions or programs to determine whether or not they are operating at basic levels of quality.

FUNCTIONS OF ACCREDITATION

1. Certifying that an institution has met established standards;
2. Assisting prospective students in identifying acceptable institutions;
3. Assisting institutions in determining the acceptability of transfer credits;
4. Helping to identify institutions and programs for the investment of public and private funds;
5. Protecting an institution against harmful internal and external pressures;
6. Creating goals for self-improvement of weaker programs and stimulating a general raising of standards among educational institutions;
7. Involving the faculty and staff comprehensively in institutional evaluation and planning;
8. Establishing criteria for professional certification, licensure, and for upgrading courses offering such preparation; and
9. Providing one basis for determining eligibility for Federal assistance.

THE ACCREDITING PROCEDURES

1. Standards: The accrediting agency, in collaboration with educational institutions, establishes standards.
2. Self-study: The institution or program seeking accreditation prepares a self-evaluation study that measures its performance against the standards established by the accrediting agency.
3. Onsite Evaluation: A team selected by the accrediting agency visits the institution or program to determine firsthand if the applicant meets the established standards.
4. Publication: Upon being satisfied that the applicant meets its standards, the accrediting agency lists the institution or program in an official publication with other similarly accredited institutions or programs.
5. Reevaluation: The accrediting agency periodically reevaluates the institutions or programs that it lists to ascertain that continuation of the accredited status is warranted.

TYPES OF ACCREDITATION

In general there are two types of accreditation: institutional or general, and specialized or program.

Institutional or general accreditation is awarded by the secondary and postsecondary commissions of the six regional accrediting associations. Such accreditation applies to the total institution and signifies that the institution as a whole is achieving its objectives satisfactorily. While the procedures of the regional accrediting commissions differ somewhat in detail, their rules of eligibility, basic policies, and standards are similar. Eight postsecondary commissions of the six regional associations appear on the U.S. Commissioner's list of nationally recognized accrediting associations.

Specialized or program accreditation is conferred by a number of national organizations, each of which represents a specialized area such as architecture, cosmetology, law, practical nursing, teaching, or trade and technical education. A primary purpose of specialized accreditation is to protect the public against professional or occupational incompetence.

While many of the specialized accrediting agencies accredit schools, departments, or programs situated within collegiate or other postsecondary institutions, some of these agencies also evaluate entire institutions. Such is the case when certain single-purpose or other postsecondary institutions are not eligible for regional accreditation. Unlike the regional commissions, the specialized accrediting agencies and associations demonstrate marked variation among their criteria for accreditation, definitions of eligibility, and operating procedures. There are 38 national specialized accrediting agencies and associations recognized by the U.S. Commissioner of Education, one of which functions at the secondary level.

In view of the differing emphases of the two types of accreditation, institutional accreditation by the regional associations should not be considered as being equivalent to specialized accreditation. Institutional accreditation does not validate a specialized program or institutional division in the same manner and to the same extent as does specialized accreditation.

Further, while accreditation by a nationally recognized accrediting agency listed by the U.S. Commissioner of Education is one of the most reliable indexes of educational quality available in this country, and signifies that an institution or program has met certain standards of educational quality, accredited institutions or programs should not be considered to be equal in quality.

Also, neither institutional nor specialized accreditation necessarily gives assurance of the transferability of credit earned in one institution to another or of acceptance of graduates by employers. Acceptance of students or graduates is always the prerogative of the receiving institution or employing organization.

For these reasons, students should take other measures to determine whether their educational goals will be met, prior to enrollment. These measures include checks with prospective employers or institutions to which transfers are desired and personal inspection of the institution in which enrollment is contemplated.

NATIONAL RECOGNITION

For purposes of determining eligibility for U.S. Government assistance under certain legislation, the U.S. Commissioner of Education, under Public Law 82–550 and subsequent legislation, is required to publish a list of nationally recognized accrediting agencies and associations which he determines to be reliable authorities as to the quality of training offered by educational institutions and programs. Most institutions attain eligibility for Federal funds by way of accreditation or preaccreditation by one of the accrediting bodies recognized by the U.S. Commissioner of Education. In some legislation, especially that intended to help developing institutions, provision is made for special qualifying steps that may be taken as alternatives to the normal accreditation process.

The eight postsecondary commissions of the regional associations and the 38 specialized accrediting agencies which are recognized by the Commissioner have no legal control over educational institutions or programs. They promulgate standards of quality or criteria of institutional excellence and approve or admit to membership those institutions that meet the standards or criteria.

The following criteria for determining nationally recognized accrediting agencies and associations were evolved and published in the January 16, 1969, Federal Register, replacing the original statement published in 1952.

CRITERIA

The agency or association:

1. Is regional or national in the scope of its operations (regional as here used means several States);
2. Serves a definite need for accreditation in the field in which it operates;
3. Performs no function that would be inconsistent with the formation of an independent judgment of the quality of an educational program or institution;
4. Makes publicly available (a) current information concerning its criteria or standards for accreditation, (b) reports of its operations, (c) lists of institutions or educational programs which it has accredited;

5. Encourages and gives staff guidance for institutional or program self-study prior to accreditation;
6. Secures sufficient and pertinent data concerning the qualitative aspects of an institution or educational program, and accredits only those institutions or programs which after onsite examination are found to meet the published criteria for accreditation;
7. Has an adequate organization and effective procedures to maintain its operations on a professional basis. Among the factors to be considered in this connection are that the agency or association:
   - (a) Clearly sets forth the scope of its accrediting activities, both as to geographical area and nature and type of institutions or program fields covered;
   - (b) Has financial resources as shown by its audited financial statements necessary to maintain accrediting operations in accordance with published policies and procedures;
   - (c) Has clear, written definitions of and procedures for (1) the accrediting of institutions or programs, (2) placing them on a probationary status, (3) revoking accredited status, and (4) reinstating the accredited status of an institution or program;
   - (d) Charges only reasonable fees;
   - (e) Uses experienced and qualified examiners to visit institutions, to examine educational objectives, to inspect courses, programs, administrative practices, services, and facilities, and to prepare written reports and recommendations for evaluation by the agency or association—and causes such examination to be conducted under conditions that assure an impartial and objective judgment;
   - (f) Evaluates an institution or program only with the specific authorization of the chief executive officer of the institution;
   - (g) Provides for adequate consultation during the visit between the team of visitors and the faculty, administrative staff, and students;
   - (h) As a result of the accreditation visit, furnishes a written report to the chief executive officer of the institution with comments on the institution's areas of strength, on the areas needing improvement, and on suggested means of improvement;
   - (i) Provides the chief executive officer with an opportunity to comment upon the factual elements of the report of the visiting team before the agency or association takes action on it;
   - (j) Evaluates the report of the team in the presence of a member of the team, preferably the chairman;
   - (k) Provides a regular means whereby the institution may appeal to the final authority in the agency or association;
   - (l) Reevaluates at reasonable intervals its accredited institutions, and educational programs;
8. If an agency has developed a preaccreditation status, it shall have adequate procedures and requirements for the award of such status, comparable to those employed for the award of accredited status;
9. Reviews at regular intervals the criteria by which it evaluates institutions or educational programs, in order that the criteria shall both support constructive analysis and emphasize factors of critical importance;
10. Has demonstrated not less than 2 years' experience as an accrediting agency;
11. Has gained acceptance of its criteria, methods of evaluation, and decisions, by educational institutions, practitioners, licensing bodies and employers throughout the United States;
12. Has demonstrated its capability and willingness to enforce ethical practices among the institutions and educational programs accredited by it.

In view of the aforementioned criteria, it is unlikely that more than one association or agency will qualify for recognition (a) in a defined geographical area of jurisdiction or (b) in a defined field of program specialization within postsecondary or collegiate education.

PREACCREDITATION

Under the terms of various legislation providing for Federal assistance to education, an institution is eligible to apply for participation in certain programs if, among other restrictions and requirements, it is accredited by a nationally recognized accrediting agency or association, or if the U.S. Commissioner of Education has determined that there is satisfactory assurance the institution will meet the accreditation standards of such an agency or association within a reasonable time. In administering the "satisfactory assurance" requirement, the Commissioner relies upon the preaccreditation determinations of the accrediting agencies and associations which he has recognized for performing such determinations.

The Commissioner receives petitions from accrediting agencies and associations seeking recognition for according preaccreditation status. To justify recognition by the Commissioner, an agency shall demonstrate that it has established procedures and requirements for awarding such status which are comparable to those employed for awarding accredited status. The Commissioner determines an institution having recognized preaccredited status to be meeting the "reasonable assurance" requirement as long as the accrediting agency certifies it to be making progress toward accredited status.

THE ACCREDITATION AND INSTITUTIONAL ELIGIBILITY STAFF

In the summer of 1968, the U.S. Commissioner of Education established a special staff to deal with accreditation and eligibility matters. Located in the Bureau of Higher Education, the Accreditation and Institutional Eligibility Staff has the following major functions:

1. Continuous review of procedures, policies, and issues in the area of the Office of Education's interests and responsibilities relative to accreditation and eligibility for funding;
2. Administration of the eligibility for funding process;
3. Administration of the process whereby accrediting associations secure initial and renewal of recognition by the U.S. Commissioner of Education;
4. Liaison with accrediting associations;
5. Consultative services to institutions, associations, other Federal agencies, and the Congress regarding accreditation and eligibility for funding considerations;
6. Interpretation and dissemination of policy relative to accreditation and eligibility for funding issues in the case of all appropriate programs administered by the Office of Education;
7. Conduct and stimulation of appropriate research; and
8. Support for the Commissioner's Advisory Committee on Accreditation and Institutional Eligibility.

ADVISORY COMMITTEE ON ACCREDITATION AND INSTITUTIONAL ELIGIBILITY

The Advisory Committee on Accrediation and Institutional Eligibility was established in May 1968 to assist the U.S. Commissioner of Education in fulfilling his statutory obligations. In addition, it advises the Commissioner on broad policy matters relating to the accreditation process and institutional eligibility for Federal programs. Specifically, the Committee functions to:

(a) Review all current and future policy relating to the responsibility of the Commissioner for the recognition and designation of accrediting agencies and associations wishing to be designated as nationally recognized accrediting agencies and associations, and recommend desirable changes in criteria or procedure;

(b) Review all current and future policy relating to the responsibility of the Commissioner for the recognition and designation of State agencies determined to be reliable authorities as to the quality of public postsecondary vocational education in their respective States for the purpose of determining eligibility for Federal student assistance programs;

(c) Review and advise the Commissioner in the formulation of all current and future policy relating to matters of institutional eligibility;

(d) Review the provisions of current legislation affecting the Office's responsibility in the area of accreditation and institutional eligibility, and suggest needed changes;

(e) Develop and recommend to the Commissioner criteria and procedures for the recognition and designation of accrediting agencies and associations in accordance with legislative provisions, Executive orders, or interagency agreements;

(f) Review and recommend to the Commissioner, for designation as nationally recognized accrediting agencies and associations of reliable authority, all accrediting agencies and associations which meet the criteria established under (e);

(g) Develop, under the authority of the Vocational Education Act of 1963, as amended, and subject to the approval of the Commissioner, standards and criteria for eligibility for Federal funding programs for specific categories of vocational training institutions which have no alternate routes by which to establish such eligibility for funding;

(h) Maintain a continuous review of Office administrative practice, procedure, and judgments, and advise the Commissioner of needed changes;

(i) Keep within its purview the accreditation and approval process as it develops at all levels of education;

(j) Advise the Commissioner concerning the relations of the Office with accrediting agencies or associations, or other approval bodies, or as the Commissioner may request.

PROCEDURES FOR RECOGNIZING BODIES AS NATIONALLY RECOGNIZED ACCREDITING AGENCIES AND ASSOCIATIONS

1. Accrediting bodies shall be evaluated for recognition by the U.S. Commissioner of Education as nationally recognized accrediting agencies and associations, when requests for such recognition are filed with the Director, Accreditation and Institutional Eligibility Staff, Bureau of Higher Education.
2. Requests for recognition shall be accompanied by evidence which establishes that the agency or association meets the criteria for "Nationally Recognized Accrediting Agencies and Associations." (Federal Register, Vol. 34, No. 11, Jan. 16, 1969, p. 643.)
3. Requests shall be reviewed by staff members of the Accreditation Policy Unit, Accreditation and Institutional Eligibility Staff, who shall study the standards and procedures of the applicant agencies for conformity to the criteria for nationally recognized accrediting associations, and who shall take whatever other investigative steps are necessary in order to present accurate and comprehensive information to the Commissioner's Advisory Committee on Accreditation and Institutional Eligibility.
4. The Advisory Committee shall review the report of the Accreditation Policy Unit and shall make appropriate recommendations to the U.S. Commissioner of Education. The Advisory Committee may recommend that recognition be granted to an agency, that approval be deferred, or that approval be denied.
5. All nationally recognized accrediting agencies and associations shall be reevaluated by the U.S. Commissioner of Education at least every 4 years, or when a review is deemed necessary in view of a change of practice, procedures, or operating methods of the agency.

PART I

Institutions Accredited and Preaccredited by the Postsecondary Education Commissions of the Regional Associations Recognized by the U.S. Commissioner of Education

Following the listing of each institution by State, dates of initial accreditation and of latest renewal or reaffirmation of accreditation are given. The dates given do not reflect changes in the accredited status of an institution. The initial date of accrediting, whether as a 2-year or 4-year college, is reported. The information is current as of September 1, 1972.

For the most part, the information for this listing appears as provided by the accrediting associations, with only those editorial changes necessary for consistency of format. Components which are listed in parentheses under the name of the parent institution are included in the accreditation of the parent; other components are separately accredited. Any questions regarding the information contained in the listing should be directed to the appropriate commission of the association. The addresses follow.

ACCREDITING AGENCIES AND ASSOCIATIONS RECOGNIZED BY THE U.S. COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION FOR PREACCREDITATION

The following nationally recognized accrediting bodies are currently recognized by the Commissioner as reliable authorities to establish satisfactory assurance through the award of preaccreditation status to educational institutions or programs:

Regional Accrediting Commissions

Commission on Higher Education
Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools

Commission on Institutions of Higher Education
New England Association of Schools and Colleges

Commission on Institutions of Higher Education
North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools

Commission on Higher Schools
Northwest Association of Secondary and Higher Schools

Commission on Colleges
Commission on Occupational Education Institutions
Southern Association of Colleges and Schools

Accrediting Commission for Junior Colleges
Accrediting Commission for Senior Colleges and Universities
Western Association of Schools and Colleges

Official recognition for the establishing of satisfactory assurance was granted the regional accrediting commissions for higher education prior to fiscal year 1966. Each of the aforementioned commissions listed, with the exception of the Commission on Occupational Education Institutions of the Southern Association, currently awards the preaccreditation classification of Correspondent and Recognized Candidate for Accreditation. The classifications are defined as follows:

Recognized Candidate for Accreditation—The classification given to a fully operative collegiate institution which, as attested to by a higher education commission of a regional accrediting agency, appears to be offering students on at least a minimally satisfactory level the educational opportunities implied by its objectives. In the commission's view the institution's organization, structure, and staffing are acceptable for its stage of development, its sponsors are committed to supplying its needs and are able to do so, its governing board is functioning properly, and its academic and financial plans are well designed. Candidacy is not accreditation. It indicates that an institution is progressing steadily and properly toward accreditation, but does not assure or even imply eventual accreditation.[1]

Correspondent—The classification given to a collegiate institution, not necessarily yet in operation, which has indicated its intent to work toward accreditation and which, having provided evidence of sound planning and the resources to implement these plans, appears to have the potential for attaining this goal within a reasonable time. Correspondent status is not accreditation nor does it assure or even imply eventual accreditation.[2]

Affiliate is a membership status linking an institution with the Commission on Occupational Education Institutions of the Southern Association for the purpose of self-improvement. Affiliation is the first stage of development for nondegree granting, vocational-technical institutions seeking to improve their programs and to gain accreditation.

National Specialized Accrediting Associations

American Association of Theological Schools (AATS):
The AATS' preaccreditation classification, "Authorizing the Sending of Schedules," is assigned to theological schools which will be able to move on to accreditation within 1 or 2 years. Recognition of this status was awarded by the Commissioner in May 1969.

American Dental Association (ADA):
The ADA's preaccreditation classification, "Accreditation Eligible," is assigned to developing dental schools and developing dental hygiene education programs. Recognition of this status was awarded by the Commissioner in September 1969. The preaccreditation classification of "Reasonable Assurance" is assigned to institutions which are in the process of developing plans for a dental school. Recognition of this classification was awarded by the Commissioner in August 1971.

American Optometric Association (AOA):

The AOA's preaccreditation classification, "Accreditation Eligible," is applicable to optometry schools which have yet to enroll their first class. The classification "Preliminary Approval" applies to developing schools which have students enrolled but are not fully operational. Both categories were recognized by the Commissioner in August 1971.

American Osteopathic Association (AOA):

The AOA's preaccreditation classification, "Provisional Approval," is assigned to osteopathic colleges in their first 3 years of operation. Recognition of this status was awarded by the Commissioner in May 1969. The classification of "Preaccreditation Status" is applicable to institutions ready to admit their first class. It was recognized by the Commissioner in March 1972.

American Veterinary Medical Association (AVMA):

The AVMA's preaccreditation classification, "Reasonable Assurance of Accreditation," is awarded to those developing veterinary medical schools which the Association determines likely to become accredited once their programs are functioning. Recognition of this status was awarded by the Commissioner in September 1969.

Council on Social Work Education (CSWE):

The CSWE's preaccreditation classification, "Candidacy," is awarded to developing programs of social work education. Recognition of this status was awarded by the Commissioner in March 1972.

Engineers' Council for Professional Development (ECPD):

The ECPD's preaccreditation classifications of "Reasonable Assurance of Accreditation" and "Candidate for Accreditation" were officially recognized in the spring of 1965 for engineering technology programs. "Reasonable Assurance of Accreditation" status is awarded by the ECPD to engineering technology programs existing as a plan. "Candidate for Accreditation" status is awarded to those programs which are operating, but which have yet to graduate their first class.

Liaison Committee on Medical Education (Representing the Council on Medical Education, American Medical Association, and the Executive Council, Association of American Medical Colleges) (LCME):

The LCME's preaccreditation classification, "Reasonable Assurance of Accreditation," is assigned to developing medical schools. Recognition of this status was awarded by the Commissioner in 1964.

National League for Nursing (NLN):

The NLN's preaccreditation classification, "Reasonable Assurance of Accreditation," is assigned to developing programs in nursing education. Recognition of this status was awarded by the Commissioner in 1964 for diploma, associate degree, baccalaureate and master's degree programs in nursing education.

Special Notice

IN THE UNITED STATES no reputable institution of higher education confers degrees solely on the basis of correspondence study. The lax chartering laws in some States permit the existence of correspondence schools whose practices amount virtually to the sale of degrees. Such organizations are commonly referred to as degree mills. The U.S. Office of Education defines a degree mill as "an organization that awards degrees without requiring courses of instruction that all reputable educational institutions require before conferring degrees." Most of these degree mills operate solely by mail. In many cases staffs and plants do not even exist.

Degree mills are a serious threat to American educational standards in several ways. First they damage, by misleading the public, the legitimate and reputable correspondence schools which are filling an important and necessary role by providing correspondence study in the areas of vocational and adult education. Correspondence courses are also offered by some colleges and universities. But legitimate correspondence schools do not award degrees, and colleges and universities do not award degrees on the basis of correspondence courses alone. Second, degree mills defraud those who honestly believe that they have received recognition from a legitimate institution of higher education. Third, they lower American prestige abroad by deceiving foreign students. They cause legitimate American education degrees to be undervalued because of the confusion overseas between bona fide institutions of higher education in the United States and the degree mills.

In view of the inadequacy and utter worthlessness of degree mills and their disservice to American higher education, the U.S. Office of Education strongly urges the public to be on guard against organizations advertising degrees based solely on correspondence study. Caution should also be exercised in evaluating degrees and other credentials, to ascertain whether or not they have been obtained from degree mills.
